GOES TO LEXINGTON SOON

OLD ROSEBUD, KENTUCKY DERBY FAVORITE.
TO TRAVEL NEXT WEEK.

Trainer Weir Will Transfer His Entire Establishment from Louisville and Will Return to Churchill Downs for Final Derby Preparation.

Louisville, Ky., April 16.—H. C. Applegate & Co., upon the advice of trainer F. D. Weir, have decided to ship the Kentucky Derby favorite, Old Rosebud, to Lexington early in the coming week. The great gelding will be taken there in order that he may engage in a race before he faces the barrier for the rich Derby here at Churchill Downs, on Saturday, May 9. Trainer Weir has not yet decided as to starting Old Rosebud in the Blue Grass Stakes, in which he is engaged at Lexington and which is to be run on Saturday, May 2. He rather thinks at present that he will not ask Old Rosebud to go a mile and an eighth as early as the date of that stake, but that he will run him only twice in shorter races during the Lexington meeting. Trainer Weir has decided to ship most of his string to Lexington for the meeting there and this is another reason why Old Rosebud will be taken to that course, as his trainer desires to be on hand whenever the gelding is worked and this he can only do by keeping Old Rosebud with the horses he is racing. The son of Lucie has so far met every requirement in his Derby training and both his owners and trainer do not doubt his ability to win the Derby this season. The utmost confidence pervades the Old Rosebud stable, in spite of the prestige of such other great candidates as Ralph, Hodges, Bradley's Choice, Bringham and Surprising. It is trainer Weir's present calculation to return to Louisville with Old Rosebud about May 4 and give him his final trial for the Derby over the Churchill Downs course.

Trainer Pete Coyne recently had George J. Long's Derby candidate, Ralph, under the standard and the great colt measured sixteen hands one inch and a quarter high. He is larger in every way, including height and weight, than Sir Huon, the performer with which Mr. Long won the Kentucky Derby of 1906.

Secretary Lyman H. Davis, of the New Louisville Jockey Club, received a telegram yesterday from R. F. Carman stating that he would at once ship ten of his stable to Churchill Downs and requested that stalls be bedded down for that number of horses. The rest of the string will go to Lexington to take part in the races there.

The names and breeding of the ten promising two-year-olds in the stable of John W. Schorr at Douglas Park are as follows:

Amie Josie, b. f. by Ogden—Colline.
Eddie Deiling, ch. c. by Peter Quince—Tehoupe-tollas.

Ed Crump, ch. c. by Peep O'Day—Eveline.
Geo. Roscoe, ch. c. by Star Shoot—Olive Fant.
Goldcrest Boy, br. c. by Plaudit—Polly Prim.
Goldcrest Girl, b. f. by Ogden—Miss Granville.
Lindenthal, b. g. by Star Shoot—Lyndall.
Mars Cassidy, blk. g. by Ogden—Ivory Bells.
Pleasureville, br. g. by Plaudit—Involved.
Star Shooter, ch. g. by Star Shoot—Olga Nether-sole.

Mars Cassidy is a half brother to Old Rosebud and Goldcrest Girl is a half sister to Little Nephew. Mr. Schorr's breeders' Futurity candidates are Ed Crump and Lindenthal, Ed Crump, Eddie Deiling, Geo. Roscoe and Goldcrest Boy are eligible to the Harford Mabor Stakes. The same four, together with Mars Cassidy, are entered in the Juvenile Stakes. Amie Josie and Goldcrest Girl are engaged in the Debutante Stakes, all of which events are to be run at Churchill Downs this spring. Ed Crump and Lindenthal are entered for the Idle Hour Farm Stakes at Lexington, and what is thought to be the pick of the collection have been entered for the Spring Trial Stakes at Douglas Park. Collectively and individually the Schorr two-year-olds show more promise this season than did his youngsters last year. One of the most promising of the string for all-around future prospects is Eddie Deiling, a son of Peter Quince, that is a half brother to those good performers, Hector and Melton Street.

Hodge has the unique distinction of having won races over more tracks than any other entry in the Kentucky Derby of the forty-seven eligibles to that great race this spring. He has also the remarkable record of having won a race on every track he ever ran over. He also has the distinction of having won seventeen races before the first of May of his three-year-old form. The closest approach to this record by any three-year-old that ever won the Kentucky Derby was in Donau's case. Donau had a record of sixteen winning races before he started and won the Kentucky Derby of 1910.

Jockey C. H. Shilling has been aiding trainer Elzie Brown by taking the mount on Sam McMeekin, M. B. Gruber's promising two-year-old colt, in the education of that son of McGee in breaking away from the barrier. Gruber's stable jockey, W. French, has the mount on Little String in these trials, and whenever he gets that colt away from the barrier in front of Shilling on Sam McMeekin, Brown gives him an extra piece of money. So far French has laid up little in this way, as Shilling appears to be alert as ever when the barrier goes up. Both youngsters promise to go to the post at Lexington for their stake engagements as well schooled as was Little Nephew, in this same stable, last spring.

None of James McManus' big string will be sent to Lexington to race this spring, though he has several engagements with his horses in stakes there. Trainer W. E. Phillips has also decided not to ship anything to Lexington, though he has his three-year-old filly, Isabelle Valle, engaged in the Ashland Oaks. James Griffin will send a horse or two to Lexington and will start Skiles Knob in the Breeders' Futurity.

E. C. Taylor has a promising two-year-old filly in training at Churchill Downs, by Banaster—Fading Light, which in a recent trial had speed enough to keep within striking distance of the Derby and Quix candidate, Brouzewing, in a trial of three furlongs. Taylor has named the filly Sunburst.

P. J. Miles has brought Mud Still here from Lexington and that horse is now taking his work with the rest of the Miles string at the Downs. Miles has quite a band of selling platters this spring.

LADAS AND HIS PLACE OF BURIAL.

Lord Rosebery's Derby winner, Ladas, which died recently, was buried on his estate, The Durdans, which adjoins the famous Epsom race course. This makes two Derby winners that now lie buried in the grounds of The Durdans, the other being Annabel, which won the great race in 1838. Annabel was bred by Sir Gilbert Heathcote, who then owned The Durdans, and the Derby was his only race. His grave is within a few hundred yards of the winning post at Epsom.

At the stud Ladas was a fair success, his stock including the St. Leger winner, Troubadour, the Two Thousand Guineas winner, Gorgos, and Epsom Lad, which won $112,533 in racing. Lord Rosebery himself bred Epsom Lad, but the horse scored his greatest triumphs in the colors of Mr. J. Buchanan, who had purchased him for 1,050 guineas. Other useful horses sired by Ladas were Montem, Orifio, Costly Lady, Lady Help, Casard (winner of the Royal Hunt Cup), Vitell, Lavengro, Long Tom (winner of the Great Metropolitan), Indian Runner and Brauneberg.

BUSY RACERS OF THE YEAR RECENTLY ENDED

For the second year in succession that "iron horse" of the present day, J. H. McCarren's Camel, raced more frequently than any other thoroughbred in America during 1913. Camel ran in sixty-two races as a six-year-old in 1912. Last year he was even busier, for he ran in seventy-two races, which is one more than in 1911, when he stood second to Black Domino in respect to number of starts among American horses. There is nothing to indicate that his owner has any intention of retiring him yet awhile and it is likely that he is destined to race just as frequently the current year as during the preceding three. If he does he undoubtedly will make an American record that will stand for a long time to come. Next to Camel the busiest racer of 1913 was Chemulpo, most of whose races were run in the colors of J. W. Hedrick, but which is now the property of J. L. Holland. She ran in sixty-one races. After her come B. Weite's L. M. Eckert, G. B. Moreland's Just Red and W. A. McKinney's Lehigh.

Some of the horses that started most frequently made fair showings in winnings and some did not. A notable instance of the latter is Lord Elam, which ran forty-four times without winning a single race, although he placed occasionally and thereby won $800 during the year. Lambertha started in even more races than Lord Elam without finishing first, but won more money in seconds and thirds. The one whose reward was the least for any considerable number of attempts was Meada, which placed in only one of her forty starts. Much more is asked of the thoroughbred in America in the way of racing than in other countries and the following tabulation of the 1913 record of horses that started in thirty-five or more races in the United States, Canada and Mexico affords a striking illustration of the hardness of the breed:

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, APRIL 17, 1914.

WILLIAM HOGAN IS REINSTATED.

New York, April 16.—At the last meeting of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association a number of licenses were granted to trainers, jockeys and gentlemen riders. One of those licensed was William Hogan, who was suspended last spring on a charge that he had violated the rules in invigilating the jumper Buckhorn before sending him to the post for a race. Hogan's stimulating was not of the "hop" order. The application of a bale stick to the horse before sending him from the paddock was one of his methods to rouse the old fellow, while some whiskey and coffee, or sherry and coffee is said to have been administered. Buckhorn was beaten by Shannon in the race.Another new trainer appears on the list in the person of Med Henderson, who has ridden for several seasons with success. All winter Henderson has had a few horses that he has been fitting for cross-country racing.Of the jockeys whose applications were acted upon, Walter W. Noe was the only one held up.
His application was tabled. In this list there appears a new one in Charles Koerner, who a few seasons back was one of the most successful of flat riders. Koerner became too heavy for flat racing and has taken to the field.Charles Grand, another flat rider, has announced his intention of heretofore confining his efforts to the steeplechase and hunt. The gentlemen riders who were granted certificates to ride were:William R. Martin R. Mortimer, Jr.
Edward H. Carle G. F. Alpers Percy Blake Faskally Rufus C. FinchThe professional jockeys licensed for the season were:Joel Clark Joe Ryan W. J. Keating Frank Lewis Mack Holmes Peter Chartrand
E. Henderson William Booth John Henderson Charles KoernerThe trainers whose applications were acted upon favorably were:M. Henderson J. L. Coyle William Hogan G. E. Enser
Anthony Allen W. Garth
William J. Keating Woods Garth

ITEMS THAT INTEREST FRENCH TURF MEN.

French sportsmen who went over to Liverpool for the Grand National, returned full of jubilation over the performances of Trianon III. and Luttrell III. They generally agree that the honors of the race rest with M. Hennessy's horse, which carried his heavy burden the longest and the best. They into third place. As most of the backers supported him both ways, they come out without loss, and the same can be said of the followers of Trianon III.
Everyone would have rejoiced had M. de Mumm's gallant gray been successful, for his owner is one of the best of sportsmen, and he has made many sacrifices in order to have his colors carried with distinction on an English race course. Trianon III. has been specially trained all the year with a view to the Grand National, and special interest was given to the race through the rivalry between the two French horses and jockeys. Many Frenchmen hunting their wagers to the issue of Luttrell III. beating Trianon III. and vice versa. Several fancy bets were also made about Carter and Hawkins getting over the course without mishap.Some of the French spectators are inclined to think that M. de Mumm's horse made a mistake in his race in the early stages of the contest; he was, no doubt, told to specially look after Cover-coat, and did not realize the danger of letting the lightly-weighted and despised Sunloch obtain such a long lead or allowing him to maintain it the second time round. With the rest of the jockeys he probably thought the hunter would come back to the others before the finish. Carter was looking after Covercoat, and Hawkins was looking after Luttrell III.; both were playing for safety, and took few chances in the race. Well, anyhow, another Grand National is over, and although we have not won, France is by no means disgraced. In fact, an admirer of Luttrell III. rightly speaks of his "glorious" defeat.Last week Mary the Second, a mare that will be remembered in England, having carried the colors of her owner, Baron Maurice de Rothschild, in the Lincolnshire handicap and the Great Ousewin Cup, foaled a fine-looking colt to Ossian. This is her first produce. It looks as if Baron Maurice intends to carry on the traditions of the Rothschild family in their connection with the French turf.
For he has now two large stud farms, one at Champagne Saint-Hilaire in the department of the Marne, the other at Champagne Saint-Hilaire in the department of Vienne. His three stallions are Vordun (winner of the Grand Prix de Paris); Ossian (winner of the Prix du Conseil Municipal and the horse that beat Mushroom in the big race at Maisons-Laffitte), and Arde de Trioum (by Gallande-Lifleche), a horse that was heavily engaged in England, but, I believe, never ran there. Baron Maurice has over seventy broodmares, many of them having been imported from England. Among these are Ladette (dam of Oiseau Bleu; Meleto (1897), by Bona Vista (1898), by St. Serf; Silver Thread (1898), by Ayrshire; Cape Wrath (1899), by Carbine; Lady Britta (1899), by Melton; Lass o' Glory (1899), by Ladass; Ayrshire Beauty (1900), by Ayrshire; Noreen Agnes (1901), by Juggler; Brilliance (1902), by Orion; Verdun (1902), by Florio; Prime (1905), by Orme; and Mary the Second, who was bred by the Duke of Portland.Baron Maurice de Rothschild's horses are trained privately by J. d'Oukensy at Maisons-Laffitte.
In consequence of the Maisons-Laffitte race course being flooded, the program arranged for last Saturday had to be transferred to Enghien, but the hippodrome there is not well adapted to flat racing. There are, in fact, two turns in the six furlongs course. The big event of the day was the meeting of Dagar and Shannon in the Prix Perle. Dagar had won the French Derby and Shannon the Prix du Conseil Municipal. Seven horses turned out for the race, among them being Grand d'Espagne II., winner of the Grand Prix de Nice, a fortnight ago. Now he finished last. Shannon looked far from fit and could not go the pace set by Ghiberti and Clondir, but these in the race were chased by Dagar, who which won by a head. The Prix de Haras Nationaux was another important race on the program; the horses eligible for this event had to be sired by stallions belonging to the government. The winner, Le Ritto, is a colt, foaled by Roissy, belonging to M. A.
Fould; the second, Rutland, a colt, by Kanard; and the third, Fait du Prince, a colt by Prince William.
The sires of the latter two were imported from England. Princess Duple-Singh won a mile handicap with Bisibile, a mare by Osobch, but the rest of the racing was not of much interest. The starts at Enghien are given by the elastic starting-gear.I hear that M. Edmond Blanc has refused an offer of $100,000 for Dagar. Although the colt's performances were somewhat inconsistent, he scored seven victories in thirteen attempts as a three-year-old, the sum of $80,000 being credited to him in stakes. He was engaged this year in the Prix du Sablon (with $6,000 added money), the Prix Boy-ard (with $10,000 added), the Prix du Cadran (with $20,000 added), the Prix Biennal (with $8,000 added), and several other valuable races; therefore M. Blanc is no doubt well to keep him on the turf for another season. Dagar is also entered for the Grand Prix de Vichy, which is worth over $20,000, and this is a race he might easily win. He is also in the Coronation Cup at Epsom.—Paris Letter to Sporting Life of April 2.

KING GEORGE'S FIRST WINNER.

If anything occurred that could be twisted into a suggestion that Queen Mary disapproved of racing, however trifling the foundation for it, we should have had the story carried by the Associated Press, but that news-gathering agency failed to report what was of some general interest, King George's first racing success of the year. That occurred on the first of April, when his majesty's Sunny Lake won the Greenham Stakes at Newbury, as detailed in the following summary: Greenham Stakes, of £250, three-year-olds; one mile—Sunny Lake, by Sundridge—Pearl of the Loch (his Majesty), 117. H. Randall, 1; Francois (Mr.
East), 122. H. East, 2; General Gowan (Mr. Muskerer), 115. L. Hewitt, 3; Also ran—Magyar, Serpol, Puyfoudu, and a colt, by William Gunn, Whiteboy, Roseville, Scipio, Flambar.Betting—2 Magyar, 6 Sunny Lake, 8 Roseville and Land of Song, 100-9 Whiteboy and Puyfoudu, 100-8 and other. Won by two lengths; four lengths between second and third.
The interesting point of this victory is that it duplicates an event in the turf career of his father. King Edward's Minoru won the Greenham Stakes as a preface to his double in the Two Thousand and Derby of five years ago. Minoru is now at the stud in Russia. The critics do not expect the Sunny Lake will leave such a mark on the turf as did Minoru. He is engaged only in the Two Thousand, and his display of racing has not been impressive. His finish in the Greenham was not that of a resolute horse, and he will probably shine at short distances, if he shines at all. Sunny Lake was ridden by the Englishman, Randall, the ex-amateur jockey, who has this year returned to the saddle after a spell at training. Herbert Jones, the King's first jockey, could not make the weight, 117 pounds.—Francis Nelson in Toronto Globe.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Derby dates in Russia are as follows: Varsowie, May 31; Moscow, July 12; St. Petersburg, August 2.
Frank O'Neill is heading the jockey list in France this season, with M. McGee and Guy Garner tied for second place at the beginning of the present month.The Epsom Derby favorite, The Tetrarch, is as Irish as nativity and surroundings can make him.
He was bred in Ireland and is owned there. His trainer, H. Persse, is Irish and so is the jockey, Steve Donoghue, who has ridden him in all his races.William Wray, of Montreal, who purchased the filly Sacal, at the dispersal sale of the stable of James Love, has decided to start her in the King's Plate race at Blue Bonnets this season. The filly will be put in training at an early date and fitted for her plate engagement.Governor Hall of Louisiana has made a statement to the effect that he would veto any measure passed by the state legislature that would legalize betting on the races. The legislature is now in session and a bill for a state racing commission with pari-mutuel betting legalized has been introduced.The program book of the Ontario Jockey Club for the forthcoming meeting at Woodbine Park, Toronto, is tastefully embellished with fine half-tones of the incidents in connection with the racing.
Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught to the Woodbine course last spring.Among the goals recently reported at the Haras de Bel-Ebat and Villebon in France are a bay colt by Rock Sand—Mauricette and a colt by Rock Sand and Valdivia. Arrivals at Rock Sand's court include E. R. Hithcock's Camp, Sir William Nelson's Nehusita, S. J. Uzzie's Clochette, M. Jarier's Valdivia and L. Mantacheff's Cyma."Puddin' McDaniel, who was recently granted a license by the Jockey Club stewards, will make his reappearance in the saddle after having been in retirement for several years, at the Havre de Grace meeting, which opens tomorrow. George M. Odom, to whom he is under contract, has given a call on his services to E. F. Cooney. McDaniel expects to ride at 108 pounds.From the opening of the French flat racing season on March 13 up to and including March 31 the horses of Herman B. Duryea won four races and $16,285 and those of W. K. Vanderbilt seven races and $9,555. Two American stud owners, who were third, respectively, in the French winning owners' list up to that date, Michael Calman was first with one race, worth $20,000, to his credit.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES OF THE DAY

Mexican currency dropped to 25 cents at El Paso. This is the lowest price yet placed.The Republican state convention renominated Ben W. Hooper for a third term as governor of Tennessee.The will of former governor Eben S. Draper of Massachusetts provides for $234,000 in public bequests.Former Governor Chase S. Osborn will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Michigan the coming fall.Ohio suffragists have adopted a resolution calling upon the Republican and Democratic parties to fall in line with the Progressive party on the equal suffrage question.Colonel Goethals announces that the Panama canal is in condition to allow the immediate passage of the smaller crafts of war, should it be deemed necessary to use it.Earl Hamilton, the pitcher who jumped from the St. Louis American League club to the Kansas City Federals last Thursday, has agreed to rejoin the St. Louis team.Londonderry, Ireland, April 16.—A suffragette arson squad burned a large residence here today.
"Apply for damages to Sir Edward Carson," was one of the placards left behind.The New York State Court of Appeals met yesterday to listen to arguments on the question of the legality of the impeachment and removal from office of former Gov. William Sulzer.It is understood in diplomatic circles that Count von Bernstorff and James J. Jusserand, the German and French ambassadors, had been active throughout their foreign offices in bringing about a relief of the Mexican crisis.Tacoma, Wash., April 16.—The strike of yardmen employed at the Tacoma smelter, a Guggenheim property, was officially declared off after having been in progress since January 1. The men struck because their workday was increased from nine to ten hours.Vincent Astor has had an abscess in the lower part of the right lung, but this has now discharged and the patient's condition has greatly improved, according to a statement given out at the country home of his fiancée, Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, where he is ill.Fear that the opening of the Panama canal will be followed by a world-wide redistribution of yellow fever and cholera is expressed by Dr. Richard P. Strong, head of the Harvard school of tropical medicine. Dr. Strong was formerly head of the government biological laboratory in the Philippines.
United States Senator J. P. Clarke was renominated by a majority of 212 over Judge W. F. Kirby, according to a canvass of the Arkansas vote. Supporters of Judge Kirby announced a contest would be instituted, and that the action should be before the Democratic state convention in Pine Bluff in June.A historical coincidence has been discovered in that the Atlantic fleet is due to reach Tampico on the sixteenth anniversary of the declaration of war between Spain and the United States, April 21, 1898. It was also noted that the revolutionary war between Spain and Mexico began April 24, and the civil war April 14.Trinidad, Colo., April 16.—"Mother" Mary Jones, aged strike leader, who has been a military prisoner in the hospital ward of the Huerfano county jail at Walsenburg, where she has been held incom-municated without charge, since March 22, was set at liberty today. The release is automatic with the expirations of martial law in the strike zone," said General John Chase.A climax to the unusual Shakespeare season in Germany is expected April 23, when the jubilee of the German Shakespeare society will be celebrated with the performance of plays by the great poet on practically every important stage of the country.
This will include the extra stage of the German theatrical season at the German Shakespeare festival in England or America ever witnessed in one night.Leavenworth, Kas., April 16.—Convicts employed in the twine plant at the Kansas state penitentiary have agreed to a proposition made by the state board of corrections to work overtime in order to meet the demand of Kansas wheat growers for twine. For the extra work the men of the twine plant will be given reductions of sentences.
The men will work from 6:30 o'clock a. m. until 8:30 in the evening. At the close of the day's work they will be served an extra meal.President Wilson has conferred with the leaders of both houses of Congress and is assured of support in the Senate for a new trial for Frank. Filling on the part he will take if the United States moves against Huerta, Congress is ready to levy a special tax if war is declared; funds for initial operations are available. The Senate will pass the Hay bill to provide for a larger volunteer army. Huerta has submitted demands to the executive session of the Mexican senate.Pekin, China, April 16.—Regular troops today severely defeated "White Wolf" and his brigands, several hundred of whom were killed. The troops encountered the bandit army at Liehuanhsien, northwest of Sianfu. After a sharp engagement the brigands fled to a position twenty miles from Kien-chow, northward. Heavy reinforcements of regulars have been dispatched to the scene and the brigands, who have pillaged many towns and villages and killed the inhabitants, are being gradually surrounded

THE MALE LINE OF GLENCOE.

W. S. Vosburgh Writes Interestingly of Vandal, Virgil, Hindoo, Hanover and Hamburg.

W. S. Vosburgh, handicapper for the Jockey Club, contributes to the Thoroughbred Record the following interesting article:

"Glencoe in the Gaelic tongue means, we are told, the Glen of Weeping, and is the scene of the massacre of the MacDonald clan. However, that may be, Americans have never regarded Glencoe's coming to this country with feelings other than the reverse of weeping. It was a matter of congratulation that we should secure a son of Sultan and whose dam, Trampoline, should be a daughter of Tramp and a sister to Whirlwind, thence to 'old Francella.' In addition to his royal breeding, he was a brilliant performer, having won the Two Thousand Guineas, the Goodwood and Ascot Cups. He had made only one season in England, but he did enough as sire of Pocahontas and of the granddam of Laura (Petrarch's dam); and in his second season here he sired Peytona.

"In America the get of Glencoe performed with distinction, but in the stud they are noted as broodmares rather than as sires. Glencoe's daughters in the stud achieved a success that, as time rolled on, became a proverb. Norfolk, Astoria, Kentucky, Leconte, Pricess, Maiden, Monarchist, Idlewild, Daniel Boone, Brown Dick and Joe Daniels were all from Glencoe mares. But the male line did not flourish. In fact, Glencoe was ailly breeder—he sired comparatively few colts. Then, among his best, Rigadon and Nicholas the First were gelded. Pantic died early, as did Highlander; Pryor was sent to England; Star Davis was fairly successful, but Vandal alone has carried on the line. Vandal's son Virgil, at first neglected and despised, forced his way to the front as a sire. Virgil's son, Hindoo, though he had only Hanover as a successful sire, maintained the line. Hanover begot Hamburg, and he begot Burgomaster, which at present seems the most likely to carry it on, although we are mindful of the fact that it is a bold man who dare predict the success or failure of a stallion.

Vandal by Glencoe.

"We need the late Mr. Charles Wheatly, seated on a winter's evening in his library at Fordham, with a portrait of Vandal over the fireplace, to do justice to Vandal, foaled 1824, a son of Glencoe and Alaric's dam, by Tranby (son of Blacklock). Mr. Wheatly saw nearly all Vandal's races, and always affirmed that fine day he defeated Frankfort and Henry Peritt three mile heats he could have beaten any horse then in training. Vandal's stud career began auspiciously as the sire of Mollie Jackson, the best race mare of her time, and of Ella D., a winner at all distances; while Jack the Barber, Virgil and James A. Connolly followed, the latter about the best horse out in 1868, but he broke his back while rearing in play, and at a time when he seemed invincible. Then came the Civil War, and Vandal, owned by the late Mr. Bradley, had few good mares. Mr. Alexander having purchased all the good ones for Lexington at Woodburn. Indeed, it may be said, Lexington for years starved all the stallions of his day. He was a huge monopolist, for which there was no Sherman Act to prevent his restraint of trade."

"The season of 1869 was, however, marked by quite a Vandal revival, the colts Herzog, Versailles and Pompey Payne, and a filly, Alta Vela, all three-year-olds by Vandal, playing a conspicuous part in the stake events. Of these Herzog, from the mare Dixie—by Sovereign, was the best, and the best colt of the year. In fact, horsemen said he was 'the best three-year-old seen since the days of Norfolk.' As a yearling, Herzog's ears had been frost-bitten, and from his peculiar appearance he became known as the 'crook-eared flyer.' He was the first horse that ever ran a mile in 1:43½; he ran seven races, losing but one when Pompey Payne defeated him for the Phoenix at Lexington, mile heats. Now Versailles, at the same meeting, defeated Pompey Payne for the Citizens' Stakes. Of these three heats (one being run) and the rivalry between the three Vandal colts became intense. That summer the following correspondence appeared in the sporting papers, which is a fair sample of the pleasant spirit of banter that prevailed among the horsemen of that period:

Midway, Ky., Aug. 6, 1869.

Dear Sir—I am, with my stable companions, Crossland, Cognette, and a couple of 'young bloods' by Lexington, taking my morning gallops at Bosque Bonita. My object in writing is to let my conquered friends, Herzog and Pompey Payne, know in a pleasant way, that I am 'still in the ring,' and am glad to notice the number of stakes opened for Cincinnati, Louisville and Memphis. But why make so much fuss about Pompey Payne and Herzog when I have once each defeated those heroes? Herzog could not have defeated Pompey Payne at Cincinnati had I not melted Pompey's butter for him at Lexington. Both are capital racehorses for a mile. Can they go further? The question will be answered at Cincinnati, and in the event that all the 'cracks' Narragansett, Exchange and Cottrell, are in the two-mile race, I will bet 1 to 5 now that I win. Herzog did beat me at Nashville, but I, like all young people, was too sanguine, and permitted my jockey to carry 5 lbs. overweight that day.

Yours, in the stable.

Versailles.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 23, 1869.

Dear Sir—In yours of the 21st, Versailles writes of me as his 'conquered friend,' and wants me to know he is 'still in the ring.' He asks me why such fuss is made about me and Pompey Payne? When he is so fortunate as to run a mile in 1:43½, a deal of fuss will be made about him too. Mr. Paul made 'Sam' pull my head almost off, and I have not forgotten them for it; but they tell me 1:43½ was fast enough, and as my masters are pleased with me, I am satisfied. Versailles beat me once, but I gave him a good beating at Nashville, and I intend to beat him again for calling me his 'conquered friend,' the first time he leaves home.

I invite his attention and that of all others who wish to attend, to the opening fall campaign, when I will be most happy to meet the representative of Bosque Bonita and convince him that there is little money for him in my stakes.

Yours (with short ears),

Herzog.

"The meeting of the three Vandal colts at the old Buckeye course at Cincinnati was one of the events of the year. Alta Vela and John Kilgour also starting. Versailles won the first heat, but Herzog won the next two heats, and then it was that one of his admirers, in an outburst of enthusiasm, turned poet laureate and celebrated Herzog's triumph with the following lines:

The Bugle brought the couriers up O'er Buckeye's springy clay; Their silken coats made mirrors for Dame Fashion's bright array.
The dark-skinned youth of Africa wound
The reins their wrists around;

The little forms 'neath them restless were To gain the starting bound;

They went like arrows from the bow, Like drops from old Niagara's flow.

Like nature's flash that men doth tame, Or like the breath of hurricane.

But no fleet forms o'er Buckeye wrung The wreath from Vandal's short-eared son.

"Alas! for Herzog, his triumph was his farewell.

He had, prior to the race, developed a slight cold, and as he was engaged for the two-mile heat race on the closing day of the meeting, he was taken the day following his race and given a two-mile gallop in cloths. Immediately pneumonia developed, and in less than a week the victor o'er 'Buckeye's springy clay' found a resting place beneath it.

"From 1865 to 1870, Vandal had little or no patronage, and in 1870, Gen. Harding purchased him for Belle Meade, where his first foals came in 1871, and their success was immediate. Vandalite, Voltegeur, Vocalist, Volcano, Vassal, Vanderbilt, Ventilator, Vidette, Valerian, Vortex and Vinaigrette being among them. Vandalite won the Dixie and Breckinridge and was the best filly of the year. Vandal died April 18, 1872. A picture taken a year before he died shows him quite as hollow-backed as Glencoe. His stock, whether brown, bay, black or chestnut, were usually whole-colored, showing but little white, with prominent foreheads (like Tranby) which, in the case of Vandalite, was most marked, and many of them had 'rat-tails.' Alta Vela conspicuously so. Vandal bred all colors. Of his two great daughters, Mollie Jackson and Vandalite, one was a chestnut, the other brown. Of his sons, Virgil was black; Herzog, Versailles, Pompey Payne and Volcano, bays; Vassal and Ventilator, chestnuts; while James A. Connolly was that peculiar shade, technically a chestnut, but apparently black. The success of Mollie Jackson, Capitola and James A. Connolly, all from daughters of Margrave, gave prestige to the Vandal-Margrave cross. Vandal's daughters bred better than his sons. Mollie Jackson was the dam of Colton and Fannie Ludlow (grandam of Foxhall); Coral was the dam of Wanderer and Undefeated; Valerian, the dam of Boatman; Ella D. (dam of Paris and grandam of Hanover) and Capitola was the dam of King Alfonso.

Virgil by Vandal.

"Our last sight of Virgil was the day Kingfisher won the Belmont Stakes at Jerome Park (1870), when Ed. Brown ('Brown Dick') rode him for Mr. Swigert in a hurdle race, and as we recall his black coat, gleaming like satin in the sunlight, it is hard to remember a more beautiful horse. This son of Vandal and Hymenia (according to Mr. Swigert) took his coat color from his maternal grand sire, Yorkshire. Virgil, however, was not a great racer, the distance in those days were of a trifle beyond his limit. He won at two miles, but it was not in good company. In these days of shorter distances he might have been distinguished. He was a milier, but as a hurdler was more successful.

"Virgil's rise to fame as a sire reads like a romance. He made a season in 1868 and had a few foals, among them Girl of the Period, a filly which raced in Mr. Louis Lorillard's colors and subsequently dam of Gerald. In 1870 Mr. Swigert raced Virgil over hurdles. Then he passed into the hands of the late Mr. R. W. Simmons, in whose colors he ran in 1871. Meantime, he had been broken to harness and drew Mr. Simmons' buggy. In 1872 he was returned to Mr. M. H. Sanford at North Elkhorn Stud. But Mr. Sanford soon after gave him away to Mr. Ben Bruce, who had no use for a stallion, and the old black horse was offered for sale in the Turf, Field and Farm of October 2, 1874, the 'reading notice' stating that he is bound to be sold and can be bought cheap.

"As the playbills have it, 'a period of a year is supposed to elapse,' and the October of 1875 brought a change in the fortunes of the despised Virgil. His son-in-law, Vagrant, had taken the field and won all the richest stakes of the West, while another son, Virginius, had won some of the chief events of the East. The English had eagerly offered $20,000 for Priam after Miss Letty, Industry and Crucifix appeared; so, too, they had endeavored to recover Buccaneer from the Austrians after Paul Jones, See-Saw, Formosa and Brigantine came out. In no less haste was Mr. Sanford to repossess Virgil. The portals of North Elkhorn, which had closed upon him the year before, were now swung wide open to receive the black 'buggy horse.' The next year Vagrant won the Kentucky Derby, and was sold to Mr. Astor of New York for $20,000. Virginius retained his form, and another Virgil colt, Vigil, came out and defeated the famous Parole for the Dixie and Breckinridge. Then came Vera Cruz, Memento, Vanguard, Carley B., and finally Hindoo—one of the greatest horses of the generation.

"We cannot remember ever having seen a chestnut by Virgil. He sired many blacks, many bays, but more browns. Mr. Swigert told us Virgil's dam, Hymenia, was nearly a black mare, and Vandal, his sire, could be called a brown horse. Yorkshire, the sire of Hymenia, sired a number of black mares—Verona (the dam of Vauxhall and Foster); Maria Innis (dam of Meteor); Fay, a dark brown; Ann Haukey, a brown-bay, and Bayleaf (dam of Peckness), a dark chestnut bay. Except in the case of Vagrant, the Virgils had few white marks. Like their sire, they were smoothly turned, with plump quarters and rather prick-eared, good shoulders, and several had the Vandal 'rat-tail.' Like Virgil, speed was their forte, Virgil alone being a rater, requiring a mile to settle into his stride. They trained early—Kingfish, Richmond, Memento, Carley B., Portland, for example, being better at two years old than they ever were after. But Tremont surpassed them all. He resembled Virgil in appearance, a showy black colt, quick as a flash at the post, and his unbeaten record of thirteen consecutive victories as a two-year-old has never been surpassed.

Hindoo by Virgil.

"There are many who will to this day speak of Hindoo as the best race horse America produced. Mr. Dwyer, who owned both horses, and McLaughlin, who rode them, seemed to think Luke Blackburn was Hindoo's advantage, however—he met a better class of horses. The year 1878 is memorable for the quality of its foals, for, besides Hindoo, it produced Irquois, Foxhall, Thora, Crickmore, Eolus, Barrett, Glidella and Spinaway. Some idea of Hindoo's racing merit is found in the fact that as a three-year-old he won eighteen out of twenty races, and at four years he won five out of six, defeating such horses as Eole, Thora, Crickmore, Checkmate, Parole, Barrett, Monitor, Glidella and Saunterer.

Hindoo succeeded Luke Blackburn as the 'crack' of the 'Dwyer dynasty.' When Blackburn ceased to carry the 'red with blue sash' in its career of conquest, Hindoo took it up, and it is a curious coincidence that both ran their last race for the same event—the Coney Island Cup—in consecutive years. They were the very opposite of each other. Blackburn raced like a wild horse, his head in the air, his eyes ablaze, with McLaughlin leaning back in the saddle until his heels often spurred the colt in the bricket as he endeavored to control him; Hindoo, on the contrary, docile, obedient, a model of gentlemanly composure, never exerting himself unless called upon, and, as McLaughlin once said, 'you could ride him with a silk thread.'

"It was this disposition, perhaps, that enabled Hindoo to establish a reputation as a campaigner and a stayer, for it conserved his power, which is impossible in the case of an eager or excitable horse. Few horses have gone through such a campaign at three, meeting horses of the same high class, and often when he was not at his best. This was manifestly the case when Crickmore beat him at the Coney Island autumn meeting. In his work shortly after, he seemed to recover, and Rowe, his trainer, 'moved for a new trial,' as the lawyers say, on the ground of 'newly discovered evidence,' following Crickmore to Baltimore for the Dixie Stakes, but when the bell rang Hindoo's number was up, and when Rowe opened the stable door to show him, we noted that the colt had a plaster on his throat.

"Hindoo was a brown-bay, with a star and right hind pastern white, and while he was what some called 'plain' he had to our eye a personnel that was singularly attractive. His head had none of the prominent frontal bone of the Vandalis, but he had a long, weak-looking back, and, moreover, he was light in the flanks, but he had Virgil's smoothness of outline. After winning the Coney Island Cup at four, beating Eole, it was found impossible to train him, and he was sold to Col. W. F. Clay, and the famous filly, Miss Woodford, was taken by the Dwyers in part payment. Hindoo began stud life at Runnymede in 1881, and sired Hanover in his first season. It was a tremendous beginning, but he never sired another of the same class. Sallie McChlain, foaled in 1888, was the next best, and among the others were Jim Gore, Hindooecraft, Merry Monarch, Mabel Glenn and Chief Justice. His daughters have bred well, but Hanover alone among his sons has maintained his male line.

Hanover, by Hindoo.

"Mr. Phil Dwyer has often told us of his introduction to Hanover. 'I was driving with Col. Clay,' says Mr. Dwyer, 'through Runnymede, looking over the yearlings. As we passed a paddock I saw a chestnut with white face and legs that caught my eye.'

"What colt is that?' I asked."

"That's a Hindoo," said Colonel Clay."

"Of course, I thought he was kidding, and shook my head, saying 'You might as well tell me he's a Billet.'

"Oh, no; I'm not joking," rejoined Col. Clay. "I don't know where he gets his color, or his markings, but he's a Hindoo. Besides, his dam is a Bonnie Scotland mare and he doesn't look much like a Bonnie Scotland either, does he?"

"I replied, 'I should say not, but he looks like a racehorse, whether he is a Hindoo or not; and if he is a Hindoo, I'm going to buy him'—and I did."

"That was in the spring of '85. The following winter, happening to meet Mr. Charles Bathgate, we asked him: 'Have you heard of any good yearlings?' He replied that he had seen the Dwyer lot, and the best looking was a Hindoo colt, a chestnut with white legs; but added that there was 'a black colt by Virgil' which he heard 'could run clean away from the lot. Of course, the black was Tremont, the chestnut was Hanover. Tremont could always outrun Hanover, according to Mr. Dwyer, but his sun set with his two-year-old season. They were very unlike each other. Tremont was the quickest starter ever seen hereabouts; Hanover was slow; Tremont a free runner; Hanover very sluggish. Hanover started only three times as a two-year-old, and though he won each time, McLaughlin had to ride him out to the last ounce to make him win."

"No colt could have changed more from two to three-year-old than did Hanover, and we cannot forget his impressive appearance when he came out in the spring to win the Carlton Stakes—a beautiful colt, exuberant in vitality, instead of the sluggish of the year before. He was all energy and ambition, and two days later won the Brooklyn Handicap by three lengths from Dry Monopole (which had won the Brooklyn Handicap a few days before) with only three pounds for the year. Instead of needing McLaughlin's whip and spur, he was ready to make all the pace, and started twenty-seven times that year, losing only seven. He won fourteen races before he was beaten, then only when he tried to give seventeen pounds to Laggard, which afterward won the Omnibus. Probably, Hanover was at his best the day he won the Emporium at Coney Island with 128 pounds, and who can forget when he returned to scale and the band struck up the then popular Bonanza March.

Tout a coup, on cli! Viv' la France!
Credie! c'est la r'n' qui commence, J'grimpe sur un marnionier en fleur Et ma femm' sur l'dos d'un fauteur.

"Hanover was an in-bred Vandal, for Vandal was his great grandsire, both through his sire and his dam. Yet no horse could have been more unlike Vandal than he—his color, his abundant white markings and his prodigious size were not a sign of Vandal's heavy, frontal bone and Roman nose. Nor did he resemble Hindoo or Virgil, or his maternal grandsire, Bonnie Scotland. If he resembled any ancestor, it was Glencoe. As a sire, too, he departed from the family character, as he got about as many chestnuts as he did browns or blacks, and as many bays as either. Nor were his children so much of a type as Vandal's or Virgil's—they varied. But they were better stayers than Hindoo's or Virgil's. His son, Ben Helladay, was about the best stayer seen in years, but utterly lacking in the early speed necessary in modern racing.

"Handsome was one of Hanover's best sons, but he inherited bad feet from his grandam, Nannie H., by Glen Athol, and, as he could not be induced to eat soft food, his feet drove him out of racing. Halma was a good colt at all distances and so was Buck Massie. Yankee had all the great speed to win the Futurity, but he was over-topped, his body being of too heroic a mould for ordinary legs. Perhaps Compute was as good as any of the Hanovers, but he died early. Abe Frank, too, was a good racer, and a successful sire. Toward the end of Hanover's stud career his colts and fillies rather declined in quality and size. He had been doing heavy seasons at the stud. In 1901, as many as seventy-two of his get started in races, which is significant of his labors.

Hamburg by Hanover.

"The astute Mr. John Madden will no doubt assert that Hamburg was the best horse of the Vandal line, if not the greatest racer of the last century. At all events, from his high estimate of the horse has arisen the splendid Hamburg Place, where the dams of Old Rosebud, Star Charter and Sir Martin frolic in the pastures, and where juicy mutton, finely cured hams (such as would tempt a Jew to renounce his faith), plump Orpington fowls and turkeys, provide good cheer for those who accept his hospitality.

"There is a story current that Hamburg came near following his sire and grandsire as a champion of the red and blue banner of the Dwyers, but of those odds turns of fortune he became the means of making Mr. Madden's red jacket a terror to trainers, for as a two-year-old he won twelve out of sixteen races. His Great Eastern Handicap was one of the best tests by which a two-year-old has ever been tried. He carried 155 pounds and, after a delay of nearly an hour at the post, won as he liked from one of the best fields of his year, and caused his sale to the late M. Daly, in whose colors he began at three, meeting defeat for the Belmont Stakes by Bowling Brook. It was claimed that he was not at his best, but this discovery was not made until after the race. He won the Realization from a moderate field, Plaudit, the only good one in it, being stale after a hard western campaign, and a very hollow Brighton Cup race closed Hamburg's career at three years old.

"Hamburg is a brown, with a stripe and white hind legs nearly to his hocks, and resembled Vandal's picture more than any of the male line, for while he has not the heavy forehead nor the convex profile, he had the inclination to dip in his back and the same great length from the croup to the root of the tail, not to mention the tendency to a 'rat-tail' which so many of the Vandalis had. But he had greater development of the quarters and gaskins than Vandal, and was built more on speed lines with his hocks well under him. He ran closer to the ground than any horse of our recollection, with less knee action, less sprawling, seeming scarcely to rise in his stride—a stride that stole the inches away.

"As a sire Hamburg's success was almost immediate. He sired consecutive winners of the Futurity—1903 and 1904—in Artful and Hamburg Belle and in Burgomaster, the best two and three-year-olds of 1906 and 1907. He also sired Danion, a colt which won a great many races and should have won as many more, but for accidents that befell him. His son, Borrow, was good enough to win the Middle Park Plate at Newmarket. His daughter, Artful, was about as perfect a racing machine as has ever carried a silk jacket, but rather of the dainty order. Burgomaster, on the other hand, was too heavily topped for his legs. He carried the carcass of a steer. Whether it is reserved to Burgomaster to maintain the male line of the house of Glencoe, it is too early to determine. He is quite young, but it is significant that when we showed Mr. Whitney our pictures of Glencoe, Vandal, Virgil, Hanover and Hamburg, he remarked, 'Now you had better include Burgomaster.'"
